What is Adderall?

Adderall (Amphetamine/Dextroamphetamine) is a prescription central nervous system stimulant commonly used for:

- Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD)
- Narcolepsy
- Enhancing focus, organization, and cognitive performance
- Supporting alertness and concentration for daily functioning

Adderall works by balancing key neurotransmitters that influence attention, impulse control, and mental clarity. As a controlled medication, it must be prescribed and monitored by a licensed healthcare professional.
